

ADARMA Virtual CISO

Security leadership on demand

Finding, hiring, and retaining a CISO is tough, much is at stake to not have a CISO on your team.

The Value of a CISO

Your Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) is key to designing and implementing the cybersecurity strategy you need. They ensure necessary policies, procedures and controls are in place, and manage the resources of cyber teams to build and maintain strong defence foundations. They ensure cyber risk is top of mind during organisational change and prepare for detection and response if attackers breach your defences.

Spreading the responsibilities of a CISO across teams dilutes focus and can create conflicts of interest leading to failure in delivering security controls and governance.

ADARMA is your team

If you are struggling to find the right CISO, we solve your problem by lending you one of ours. We have a range of experts with varied industry and regulatory experience on hand to fill your gap.

Virtual CISO is not just an individual, they are supported by a wider service including the backing of an expert team of senior security professionals. This enables the service to provide the strategic, tactical, technical, management, governance and compliance needs your organisation requires when you need it most.

We deliver on our promise of quality service and ensure you achieve the outcomes your organisation deserves.

WE HELP YOU

Provide a clear view of threat & risks you are exposed to

Define your security service strategy and roadmap aligned to your business vision and threats you face

Provide resources and knowledge to mitigate and remediate known threats and risks

Ensure compliance to legislative and certification requirements

"Adarma came in at the right time to offer the vCISO service to us, traditionally, we have always gone with recruiting a CISO and have never considered a service approach until now, I am very pleased we have done so and are now seeing the benefits.

CISO - TESCO

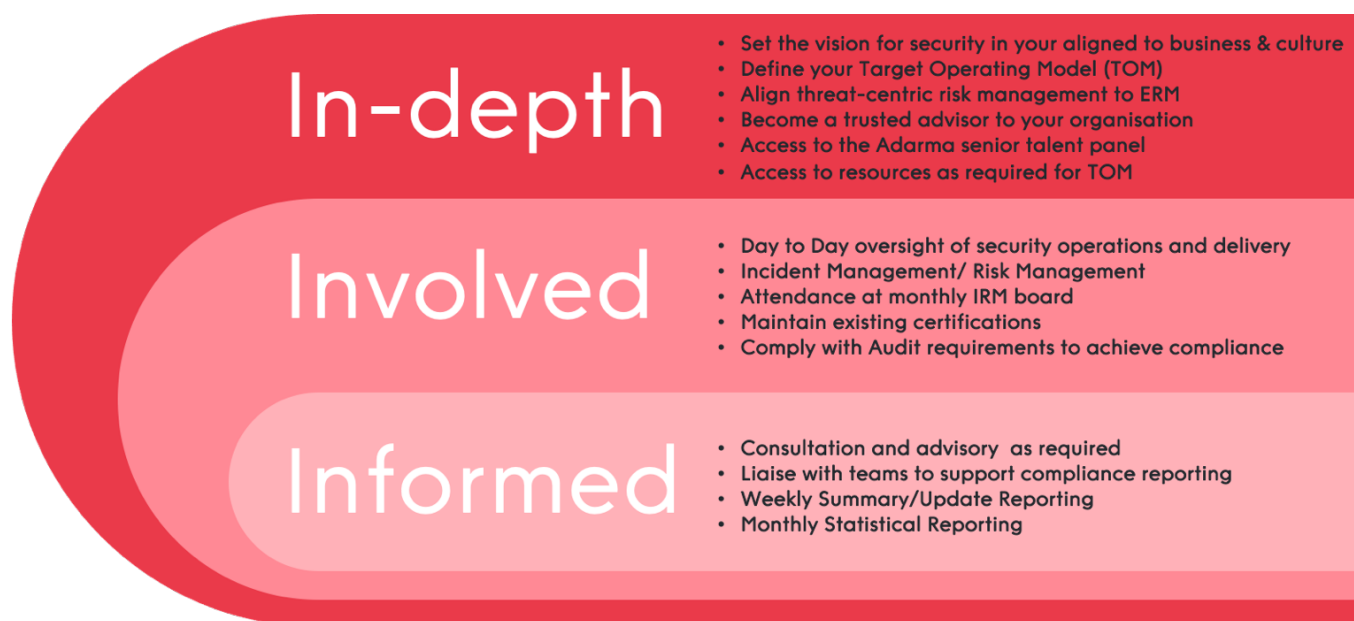

"Finding a CISO has been a difficult challenge for us since our previous CISO moved on, the level of competency within our price range was not meeting our needs. Adarma have shown us their vCISO model and have blown us away with what they can do, very impressive.

Head of Operations - Clark's

Customisable to your needs

We know that vCISO is an interim solution. There will be a handover to a permanent CISO and they will need the freedom to define their own agenda. To achieve your short-term goals, and ensure a seamless handover, we focus on three states of operation:

- Informed – Recommend and oversee, ensuring you are on the right path, or handover.
- Involved – Running and operating your security function and delivering your strategy.
- In-depth – Transform the vision and security function across the organisation.

We are Adarma

Your strategic partner for effective cyber threat management, we exist to protect your promise of cyber threat resilience. Our expert team of threat management specialists guide and support you to confidently mitigate risk and maximise value of your cybersecurity. Working hand-in-hand with you and your team we provide advice, intelligence, technology and security services with complete visibility and transparency to ensure you are fully protected as you transform, innovate and grow. We help you deliver the security outcomes you need to make a difference.

How to Engage

For more details, discuss your needs with Adarma client Director or account manager today.

Threat-led	Experienced	Trusted
Our resources come with our deep knowledge of the threat landscape and real experience mitigating, reporting and measuring the improvement our clients demand.	We have Practical experience of security leadership, compliance, and threat defence across a wide range of industries including financial services, government, utilities, retail.	We were built by CISOs out of a need for a company like us. One to deliver on its promises and support security professionals to do their jobs and achieve their outcomes.

Contact Details T: 0333 0058535 | E: hello@adarma.com | W: www.adarma.com

3rd Floor, Quay 1, 133 Fountainbridge, Edinburgh, EH3 9QG

www.linkedin.com/company/adarma-security

twitter.com/adarma_security

